

Links between strategical fields of action and corresponding focus areas of our work from 2008 onwards

		We support people who free themselves of poverty and dependency and we strive for a fairer world architecture
		IV We advocate that our daily bread become reality	V We promote environmental issues in development	VI We advocate fair trade and corporate social responsibility	VII We promote a just financial system
We motivate people here to commit to a fairer world	I We promote spirituality and initiate ecumenical learning processes	The right to food requires education (our campaigns 2008-10).	Environmental ethics means for us stewardship for the earth and developing regions.	Ecumenical business ethics requires fair trade and working conditions.	Ecumenical business ethics requires financial systems that are respectful of human beings and nature.
	II We motivate people to act on development policies and we build networks for action	Advocacy campaigns create the basis for coordinated actions in worldwide networks.	Justice with respect to climate change links together environmental policy with the fight against poverty.	A campaign-based dialogue with corporations and administrations will improve labour and environmental rights.	Capacity-building and international campaigns reduce corruption and illegitimate debts.
	III We motivate people to share and we promote a lifestyle that is respectful of social, environmental and gender concerns	A lifestyle in solidarity, the sharing of "bread" and resources are the basis of our fundraising for development.	A sustainable lifestyle contributes to more social justice in the global household.	Consuming fairly presupposes a fair production and trade chain worldwide.	A fairer investment behaviour generates funds for development.